

What does De Anza mean to you?

What makes you feel connected to the De Anza community?

Student responses to these questions were collected via in-person interviews with students at various locations on campus during spring 2019 by a dissertation candidate, Sean Crossland as well as student researchers. Surveys were administered over two weeks at different times, different locations, to individuals and groups of students in an effort to get a broad perspective. This included visiting the smoking sections on campus, the bus stops at the edge of campus, popular areas such as the student center and quads, talking to students on their way to class or to their cars. A total of 108 responses were included. Office of Institutional Research and Planning
